Research in modern age needs a wider understanding and training of the scientific methods for beginners as well as exiting fellows. In law and legal education, research is essential to keep both attuned to the ever growing process of social development. In a changing contours of the studies of law, growing technologies added huge demand for methodological skills in all domains of research. Diverse knowledge of the theoretical perspectives, data collection techniques, and analytical tools are the major components that have experienced paradigm shift in the research methodology. Orientations and training programmes are essential for the advancement of academic research and societal wellbeing. Research in law is a multidimensional affair where researcher has to deal with versatile societal aspects. To orient the Law and Social Science research scholars with new methodologies of the research, Maharashtra National Law University, Nagpur propose an E-Training Course on Research Methodology in collaboration with the ICSSR, New Delhi.

Maharashtra National Law University, Nagpur is established by Maharashtra Government by way of enactment known as the Maharashtra National Law University Act (Maharashtra Act No. VI of 2014) and the University takes pride to be the Nineteenth National Law University in the country. The University shall be making rapid progress towards its dream of achieving excellence in the field of legal education. NLU, Nagpur is located in centre of the country; it gives a unique situation to be the centre for dissemination of the knowledge in all parts of the nation; currently the University is running Undergraduate, Post-Graduate and Doctorial courses. NLU, Nagpur is fully residential University and having all modern facilities for the advance studies and educational gatherings.

The objectives of this course are to help scholars to enhance the intensive knowledge and understanding on the various aspects of research methods. The training programme strives to highlight some emerging philosophical and methodological issues in sociolegal research. In the backdrop of technologically advanced scenario, the training programme concentrates on: formation and selection of a research problem; designing of research; sampling techniques; tools for data-collection; analysis of data; interpretation and discussion of results and report writing. The aim of this course is to enable the participants to formulate relevant research objectives, select and make use of suitable research methods; to use appropriate research tools and to analyse their data properly to conduct their research and orient them to be the best researcher in future. Academicians and Research Scholars pursuing (Ph.D. / M. Phil.) may apply for the course.
